CINI's IICCHAA program, supported by Modus Property, has organised training for the women of Mograhat village, south of Kolkata. Three days a week these young mothers are learning how to do Batik. The women are excited and enthusiastic, working together on the roof top of a village home to create their colourful designs with this traditional Bengali craft. This part of the program is improving the status, independence and security of these women in their communities.

On 1st February CINI celebrated its 46th year empowering women and children in need in India.
